11 Candidates Seeking 3 Chaffey High Seats

The date of school elections is almost upon us with the Chaffey Union high school district trustee election being the only really contested affair in the area.

Eleven candidates are seeking a seat on the board with only three vacancies at stake. Of the three members who will relinquish their seats one, Ben Allen, has decided not to seek another term. Richard Allred, Upland, and William Draper, Ontario, have definitely "thrown their hats in the ring" to seek re-election.

No Board Races Chaffey, Upland

There are no contenders for the three vacancies in the Upland City school district Board of Trustees election nor for the two vacancies in the Chaffey College district's trustee election. Only the incumbents filed.

Running in the Upland City school district are incumbents, Mrs. Dorothy Gibson, homemaker, who has served on the board since 1961.

Jarvis Leeman, president of Upland Lemon Growers, has served on the board since July, 1954. He is a former councilman and is presently president of the board.

Dr. John Skewis, a medical doctor, has served on the board since July 1952.

In the Chaffey College district, the incumbents running are, Mrs. George Mellon, an Upland resident and presently president of the board.

Dr. Merle Cox, an Upland resident and dentist is serving his second term.

City's Letter To Enforce Sign Law Stirs Vigorous Protests

Business men in Upland are "up in arms" about receiving letters informing them they have non-conforming signs which are illegal and must be removed or greatly modified.

Nearly all business in the Foothill boulevard and Euclid avenue areas are affected.

The downtown merchants did not receive the letter.

The controversy which has raged on and off for three years, broke out again when almost all businessmen received letters from Earl Shafer, senior building inspector, telling them their signs did not conform, and must be removed or modified. Most were hit by having non-conforming identification signs and others by size of their signs.

Shafer said the letters were sent out at this time because he had finally obtained secretarial help to do them. He said the ordinance had passed two years ago.

As to why the downtown merchants were not included in the survey, he said it was because he was told they were going to set up their own code and that he was just to conduct the survey in other parts of town.

He said that the ordinance affects anyone who has moved to another building or establishes new business.

SURVEY FINISHED

Lee Travers, administrative assistant, said the letters came out because the survey was finished and the enforcement of the ordinance was then up to the building inspector.

UPLANDER HIT

The Uplander Motor hotel, which was one of the hardest hit, has to remove almost all of their identification signs as well as the signs for the business located in the surrounding buildings.

Ted Lyman, manager, said the sign removal would restrict business and that one sign, the large Uplander Motor Hotel sign had been approved by a planning commission and was to stay until the Stewart property to the west of them was developed. Lyman said to his knowledge, the property was not due to be developed for many years.

Owner of the Mt. Fuji Nursery, 1555 W. Foothill blvd, said "The Foothill boulevard traffic moves too fast for anyone to see a sign that isn't right on the road. If they take away our signs then we'll have no businesses."

RIDICULOUS

A spokesman for Bell Realty said their sign on Euclid had already been removed as they have a deal on the building.

He was outspoken about the ordinance claiming it was "pretty ridiculous, if you can't even have a trademark, you won't have any business in Upland, period."

He complained that businesses are subjected to the Architectural Commission and if one member on it doesn't like the design, you "loose."

GREATLY CHANGED

Paul Hottel, owner of the Hotel Furniture store, said he had served on the first committee of the chamber to study the sign ordinance and thought everyone was in agreement that they could live with it, but by the time it came out of the council, it had been greatly changed.

He said that the ordinance would be studied in the Civic Affairs committee of the Chamber of Commerce and then recommendations would be made to the council.

Ralph Miller, realtor and developer of the Foothill Village shopping center said the sign ordinance had been changed since the Safeway sign, which is now non-conforming, was erected.

"The sign cost $20,000 and met all standards three years ago and if the city can condemn it when we pay such high taxes, it just isn't right," Miller declared.

Councilman James Christensen said the sign ordinance should come in for a review since the Foothill businesses and the downtown merchants have different needs. The businesses along Foothill have a 45 ft. set back to contend with and fast traffic. He said he thought it had all been thrashed out at the time the ordinance was passed.

"It is a good ordinance," said Mayor George Gibson, "and keeps out the sign clutter. I think it is good and not restrictive. Certainly it isn't as restrictive as Claremont or Montclair. We just can't have one business putting up a large sign and then the next business a larger sign. It would just make clutter like there is in nearby towns."

"It was carefully planned and it is a good ordinance," the Mayor concluded.

The ordinance conditions must be met by 1974.

NON-CONFORMING SIGN -- One of the businesses in Upland affected by the sign ordinance is the Uplander Motor Hotel. The owners received a letter from Earl Shafer, senior building inspector, who asked the sign be removed. Some 100 businessmen along Foothill boulevard received similar letters informing them of non-conforming signs which have to be removed or modified. The businessmen object because of the cost of compliance. Many say their business cannot be seen from Foothill boulevard if the signs are removed.

SCE Retirement Won't Slow Down Cal Shores

By Jenny Kirkpatrick

MANY CHANGES
During those years, Cal says he saw many changes. One is

"I'm working harder now than I did when I worked," says Cal Shores, recently retired manager of the local office of Southern California Edison Co. This seeming paradox comes about because Cal, in his retirement, has a schedule that is as demanding as his job once was.

For instance, he serves on the Grand Jury of San Bernardino County, which keeps him busy; and he is Worshipful Master of the Ontario Masonic lodge, another demanding job.

Cal is also the proud owner of a new set of golf clubs given him at his retirement dinner, and he has a fishing pole that he loves to drop in foreign and domestic waters.

BUSY RETIREMENT

Add all these ingredients and you have a "busy retirement."

He planned it that way, so he'd have "something to do" after leaving his job with the Edison Co. where he had racked up 45 years, 8 months and 10 days of continuous work with almost no time off for illnesses or non-senses.

Born in Colorado, Cal came to California in 1919 and started his career with the Edison Co. in 1923. He was first in Fullerton as a groundsman where he dug holes for the poles entirely by hand; now they have a mechanical digger. He was then promoted to the business office as a meter reader and later as an accountant.

Transferred to Santa Ana, he served as Assistant Chief Accountant; in 1938 to the Huntington Beach area where he was a District Chief Clerk; in 1941 in the Pomona area he served in various positions and then in 1957 was transferred to Ontario where he served for several years; ending his career in Upland.

Retired but Busy

the accounting which has gone from the old manual bookkeeping method to complete automation by computers.

He has seen the company grow from a small organization to its present gigantic position in the work, and watched this technical growth lead the way to the peaceful use of the atom.

But over the years, Cal has been one to share his life with the communities he which he has worked. He has participated in the Kiwanis clubs where he served as the president of the Ontario group as well as the secretary and has 27 years of perfect attendance. He also served on the youth committee of that club. In addition, he has been active in the YMCA of Ontario and was on the board of directors for that organization.

CC HEAD TWICE

He served two terms as president of the Upland Chamber of Commerce and now is on the industrial committee. He also has been active in the United Fund campaigns; was a charter member of the 20-30 club; has been in the Masonic order for 40 years. His philosophy of life is to take an "active part in the community in which one works and lives." Sometimes for him, this has been two communities.

Cal and his wife Winifred have been married for 43 years, have one daughter and three grandchildren.

For relaxation, he mainly likes golf and fishing leisurely. His golf is rated good and he has played on 117 courses in the United States. As for fishing, he's dropped the old pole in waters of Mexico, Florida, Oregon, Washington, Colorado and California. Just mention fishing or golfing and he will doff either hat and be ready to go.

It is one sure thing about Cal, he is "dedicated" to whatever he does.

Council Again Frowns On Foothill Cafe

For the second time in less than a year, the members of the city council were reluctant to grant a conditional use permit for a restaurant on the south side of Foothill boulevard.

The matter came up at Monday night's council meeting when Jack Curry of the Western Franchising Construction Company, representing Minnie Pearl's Chicken-Beef restaurant appeared at a public hearing.

Because of legal difficulties with the land on the west, the company had changed its original plan to locate the building in an el shape to a horseshoe shape that would wrap around MacDonald's.

Since the original Conditional Use Permit was for the ell shaped building, the formal hearing had to be postponed, and the matter after considerable discussion was referred back to the Planning Commission.

In the informal hearing, the council members were divided as to the action to be taken. Councilman James Christensen said he saw nothing wrong with establishing two restaurants there. "It is zoned for Highway Commercial and should be utilized."

Councilman Max Hawkins agreed with him and said the land must be used to the best advantage.

Mayor George Gibson said he had petitions from homeowners in the area who protested another restaurant. It was also his opinion that some other commercial business was better for the area than another restaurant.

The only successful restaurant to locate in that area has been MacDonald's. To do so they had to modify their building to conform with city standards.

Taco Bell restaurant applicants were unsuccessful last year in obtaining a CUP.

The Planning Commission is expected to hear the second request for the Minnie Pearl CUP at their next meeting on April 24 and another public hearing at the council will then be scheduled for the May 6 meeting.

In other business the council: --saw films presented by John Devine, owner of a service station located at Second avenue and Arrow highway, in which he claimed to have lost $40 a day for nine days while the General Telephone Co. dug up the streets and blocked most of his driveway. He said the city should have asked the work be done during the evening hours.

--awarded a bid to the Ontario Chrysler-Plymouth dealership in the amount of $19,050 for nine pursuit cars for the police department.

Second Look Promised At Sign Ordinance

The city council has approved a review of the controversial sign ordinance. The action was taken at Monday night's council meeting.

"It is unfortunate that city officials saw fit in this moment in time to send out a letter to businessmen saying their signs did not conform," Councilman Ronald Rossitter told the council members in asking for the review.

He was referring to a letter sent out by the building department to some 100 businesses in the Foothill boulevard, Euclid avenue and other areas of the city, but not the downtown sector, saying they were in violation of the sign ordinance and their signs must be removed or modified.

"We must review this ordinance to even out any injustices. However, I'm not saying anything is wrong with the present ordinance. We need a review to see what's needed," Rossitter added.

Mayor George Gibson said, "Our ordinance is more liberal than the one in Claremont. We should ask citizens to be on the review committee. This type of thing takes a lot of study. I don't believe the success or failure of a business depends on the size of the sign. I think large signs lead to larger signs."

Councilwoman Zella Stone said, "Many feel signs are conducive to success of their enterprise and we should review the ordinance."

Councilman James Christensen said, "It is quite obvious some areas of the ordinance need review."

The committee to review the sign ordinance will be appointed by Mayor Gibson and will include representatives of the city, chamber, council, general public, architectural commission, planning commission, and business license office. No date for the forming of the committee has been set.

AL-Cuca School Candidates Express Views On Problems

Here are additional statements by three of the candidates for school board posts in the Alta Loma-Cucamonga School Districts. Each candidate in all the districts was offered the chance of making a statement of his or her feelings on the school board post, and outlining their qualifications. Only three chose to take advantage of the offer: Dick Achuff and Lloyd Michaels running in the Alta Loma School District race and Miss Carmen Betancourt, running in the Cucamonga School District race. Their statements follow.

DICK ACHUFF
Dick Achuff, his wife, Joan, and their two children, Mark and Susan, live at 5670 N. Sapphire in Alta Loma.

Achuff is Deputy Superintendent of the California Institution for Men and has been in the field of Correctional Rehabilitation for over thirty years. Since 1956, he has had administrative responsibility for academic and vocational education in major Correctional Institutions, ranging from functional literacy training through high school. Born in St. Louis, Mo., Mr. Achuff finished high school in that city. He received his BA from the Central College, Fayette, Mo., and his graduate studies were accomplished at Southern Methodist University, Dallas, Texas. Supplementary education has consisted of several short courses in Management and Administration.

As a School Board candidate, Mr. Achuff is convinced that the next several years will be critical ones for Alta Loma. Major decisions will be made concerning expansion to accommodate the growing population, and challenging problems of financing will be an inevitable part of the picture. Good communications between School and Citizenry will be of great importance.

LLOYD MICHAEL

Having served on the Alta Loma Elementary School District Board of Trustees since July 1961

I have seen the district grow from 350 students to over 1500 students. During this time we have built the Carnelian School to a complete unit, finished the Alta Loma Elementary School and have started our Junior High facility.

Alta Loma, last year, was the fastest growing school district in the west end, and if the predictions are correct, it will continue in the same manner. This indicates the future years will be even more challenging, giving greater opportunity for serving the public interests in this community.

During my service on the board we instigated the Ungraded Primary System which I feel has been a great step forward in our educational system. In the near future the results of this system should reinforce my belief in the ungraded primary program.

I have been a resident and property owner in this community for over 22 years with our children in our schools for the past 17 years. If re-elected to this board I will continue to serve the interests of the children and the public in this area as I have endeavored to do in the past.

CARMEN BETANCOURT

I, Carmen A. Betancourt, am interested in the betterment of the community. One can say many things or make promises. Achievement is the key to success. Interest and willingness are also tied together.

One of my main concerns is the citizen of the future. I strongly believe in education and in leadership. I know the problems of the community.

I attended Cucamonga School, Chaffey High School and Chaffey College. I am employed at Alta Loma High School as a library assistant.

My experience working with youth started when I was an advisor for a Tri-Hi-Y group. The last two summers helped direct a program in arts and crafts for children from kindergarten to second grade. I am currently an advisor to the Vesta Youth Organization, I am legal guardian of an eight year old child.

These things I should like to see accomplished include:

1. Effective programs for the disadvantaged.
2. Primary grade teachers who can relate and understand the problems of minority children.
3. Better management of tax money.
4. Better communication between teachers and parents.
5. Adequate tutorial program.
6. Propose better representation to satisfy the educational needs of the people.

Eleven candidates are seeking reelection for the three positions on the Board of Trustees for the Chaffey Union High School District, including two of the three incumbents.

The Upland News, the Montclair Tribune and the Cucamonga Times asked each of the candidates to submit a statement on his candidacy.

Nine of the eleven complied with the request. Two did not. Their statements are published for the information of the voters comprising the district.

MAURICE GOODBAN

"I am a native of the Upland-Ontario area, and attended the elementary school in Upland, graduate of the Chaffey High School, and a graduate of Chaffey College before receiving my BA degree in Economics from UCLA. I have been employed by the First National Bank and Trust Company for over 17 years. I am a Vice President and serve as Branch Administrator. I am also a member of our bank's Executive Committee.

"I presently reside at 982 Winn Drive in Upland. I am married and have three children, two attend the Upland High School and one attends the Baldy View Elementary School.

Maurice Goodban

"Because the present Chaffey High School District budget exceeds $9 million and the student enrollment exceeds 11,000 students there is a real need for genuine leadership from the Board of Trustees. Advance business techniques and principles must be applied to our High School District. We must attract and maintain the qualified instructors and administrators in order to keep our district at the high and competitive level. As citizens and parents of the west end community we must receive maximum value for each educational dollar."

A. RICHARD ALLRED

A. Richard Allred is a candidate for re-election to the Board of Trustees. He is currently the vice president and general

Richard Allred manager of Bonham, Inc. manufacturer of sporting goods with their factory located in Montclair. A member of the Kiwanis Club of Ontario, he has been active in youth work for the past fifteen years.

His statement follows: "Should the voters of the Chaffey District elect me I shall direct my best efforts toward the following objectives:

1. Maintenance of order in our schools to provide an atmosphere conducive to learning.
2. Expansion of methods by which students, teachers, administrators and parents may assist one another in solving school problems. Lines of communication must be kept open.

3. Conscientious review, on a periodic basis, of school programs to assure ourselves that curriculum offered is relevant to the needs of students preparing for their future.

I know that West End citizens, more than ever before, share my concern that these objectives be met."

G.A. Chalfant

As a board member, I will work vigorously for: Strong image of district; Greater public and community relations; Greater cooperation, between, board, teachers, parents, and students, by active participation by a committee approach. Cancer Volunteers Briefed On This Year's Campaign

Upland Residential Co-Chairmen Mrs. Gerard Rawle and Mrs. Edward Cavanaugh met with their captains at a coffee at the home of Ben Cavanaugh last week to discuss plans for the neighborhood Cancer Crusade to begin April 7.

"It is always gratifying to our workers to feel they have reached someone in need of help," the Chairmen agreed. "Generous responses to our fund-raising appeal will assist the American Cancer Society in their research, educational and service activities. As researchers come closer to the culmination of the disease, the efforts become more intense and the cost naturally increases. In addition to this, there is a need for expanding the Society's program of public and professional education, as well as services to cancer patients right here in Upland."

Captains heading up the various divisions of the April drive are the Mmes: Ernest Freedle, Robert Lawson, Robert Shannon, O. R. Bentley, Allyn Scheu, Robert Kuentzel, L.L. Young, Stephen May, Fred Geh -

WELCOME -- Doug Lewis, member of Rotary club, welcomes Councilman Mike Rossitter, as one of the speakers at a recent meeting of Rotary. Rossitter spoke on the club's Four Way Test.

Rotary Club Speakers Evaluate '4-Way Test'

Changing pace from the usual noon day program of the Upland Rotary Club of having a single guest speaker following the luncheon, the Wednesday March 19 program consisted of two guest speakers with each one addressing the gathering on the same subject.

The subject was the Rotary International "FOUR-WAY TEST" declaring "the things we think, say or do" which all members as well as non-members are being urged to abide by in their daily affairs, in their business and/or their profession.

This Four-Way-Test which each and every person is asked to confront themselves with consists of four questions as follows:

1. Is it the TRUTH?
2. Is it FAIR to all concerned?
3. Will it build GOOD WILL and BETTER FRIENDSHIP?
4. Will it be BENEFICIAL to all concerned?

The two speakers were appearing on this program by request to give their opinions and reactions to this collection of questions one should face up to in dealing with their fellowman.

They were not members of the Rotary Club, but had a background of wide experience in business, education, and politics besides having membership in other Service Clubs.

The speakers were Bob Spencer, assistant vice principal of Upland high school, and Ronald Rossitter, councilman and mayor pro-tem of Upland.

Spencer related the test to his profession and told the members how important a test like this was to the educational field.

Rossitter spoke on the idea that the test was one we should all try to abide by but he felt in his opinion it was "hard to attain, much like climbing a mountain."

Ronald L. Rossitter is a member of the Lions club, conducts a poultry business on West Arrow and is Chairman of four major committees in our city government including Parks and Recreation, Library Board, Civic Center and the Cultural Center.

With the meeting presided over by president Daniel W. Maher, the program was a part of the Vocational Service Committee of the club headed by Frank J. Lesinsky, with Forrest E. Doucette and Douglas L. Lewis making up the committee on The Four-Way Test program.

At the conclusion of the remarks by the two speakers president Maher presented each with a plastic desk set of The Four-Way Test.

Seminar Taping Proves Valuable

The student council at Alta Loma High school is using new ways to communicate with all students and faculty. The Council is video-taping seminar meetings and making the tape available to all the teachers and students so they might discuss the information and offer solutions. This is a student-faculty program aimed to solve problems provide more information, or improve procedures.

The student council is sponsoring a seminar each week with invitations open to students and the faculty on a limited basis. Participation in the seminar has indicated a strong desire for students and faculty to cooperate in solving problems on the campus. The video tape of the seminars was instituted to provide all students and faculty with the opportunity to view the proceedings and then offer opinions and suggestions.

The seminars in recent weeks have discussed the "Student Behavior and Pride" in the school and community. From this seminar meeting a committee has been formed to find a plan to remove certain problems - situations from the campus and promote a clean-up, paint-up campaign to assist in keeping the school neat and attractive.

The recent seminars will be a discussion of the next year's "Overlapping Six Period Day Schedule" and "Curriculum," "Elections," "Budget," and "Restructuring the ASB Constitution."

Beauty Suggestions Related By Expert

Ninety women attended a special tea given by the Upland Woman's Club to take the place of the one washed out in the February rain.

Michael Westmore gave an interesting talk on make-up. His talk emphasized the natural look, for the women who dress with style and portrays natural beauty, in her make-up.

Some of the suggestions which he made were (1) the skin must be kept clean, and soap for your type of skin is the best cleanser. (2) Moisturizing is a must, both in the morning and the evening. (3) Foundation bases for a fashionable new look are warm and glowing with a peachy radiance. Powder should be used sparingly. A translucent powder will not darken the base and toner. Excess powder can be removed with a damp sponge without disturbing the foundation. (4) Lips have a more true and alive look. (5) Eye make-up still uses the browns, blacks, greys, greens, and blues. The eyeliner for a new look should be a very fine line. Eyebrows should complement hair color, may be lightened to bring about this effect. (6) The key to success is not to follow trends and fads but to create a style which is most complimentary to you.

A birthday tea honoring Mrs. L.B. Van Orman, president was arranged by Mrs. C.C. Henneally and Mrs. Herbert Holt.

Pouring at the tea table were Mrs. George Keen and Mrs. Samuel Keen. Mrs. Joseph Day and Mrs. Lloyd Fletcher used baskets of spring flowers for decoration. Greeting members and guests were Mmes. J. B. Swingle, Charles Molnar, and Otto Kallin.

Det. Coy Estes Ends Narcotics, Drugs Course

Detective Coy D. Estes, of the Upland Police Department, recently completed a two-week course in narcotics and drug law enforcement in Long Beach. He was one of 180 to graduate from the special training school conducted by the Department of Justice's Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs.

The Bureau was created last year when the former Bureau of Narcotics and Bureau of Drug Abuse Control were merged and placed under the Justice Department. The Bureau is responsible for enforcing existing Federal narcotics and dangerous drug laws and aiding State and local law enforcement agencies in cracking down on illegal drug trade as well as spearheading educational programs aimed at reducing use of narcotics and the abuse of drugs. While at the Training School Detective Estes learned the latest methods used to control narcotics.

John Scott New USA Citizen

One of Cucamonga's "new" citizens is an even "newer" citizen of the United States.

John Scott, 27, of 8442 Via Ladera, along with 800 other new members of the United States, were sworn in early this year at the Music Center in Los Angeles. In order to qualify Scott studied history and government at night classes and passed an oral quiz.

The Cucamongan is a native of St. Thomas, Ontario, Canada. He came to this area to be with his mother, and because he had obtained a job in San Bernardino at Pacific Telephone Co.

He settled in Cucamonga because it was quiet and, "I wanted to get away from the crowds."

He was graduated from Ryerson in Toronto, Canada in electronics and radar. He came to San Bernardino area five years ago.

He served two years in the United States Army, 13 months of that time in Korea. Early in 1968 he went to work at the Burroughs Company in Pasadena. The Burroughs Company of Canada had employed him upon graduation from Ryerson and he had worked on the defense systems in northern Canada before coming to the United States.

"I decided to become a citizen because if I'm going to live in the United States, I should be one."

He says he likes California although the four seasons that he was used to in Canada are lacking.

Scott now works for Burroughs Corp., Pasadena, testing computers.

ELECTIONS

Elections, whether national or school are important. School elections help give each student a great opportunity to sample democracy. It is through this, plus home attitudes and studies, that develop a student's interest in affairs of every scope. With this in mind, I will again expound on those elections to come at Upland High.

ASB officer elections I covered last week, but I would also like to add something. Officer elections, ASB and class, are important. True, they are not something that will affect us too much, one way or another, but the proper choice of an officer, particularly an ASB officer, can do something to make high school more enjoyable. A pleasant atmosphere makes those four years much easier. To put this in a simpler term. VOTE!

CLASS ELECTIONS

Class officer elections will be held the week of April 21. Petitions may be distributed the week of April 14. Open are the offices of president, vice president, secretary, and treasurer for the soon-to-be classes of sophomores, juniors and seniors. It is these officers who will be handling your class fund - raising projects, the Christmas Formal, and the Junior-Senior Prom.

OTHERS

Campaigning for Girls' League officers and the Athletic Commissioner will be May 5-9. Petitions are available April 28-May 2. Just what the duties of the Girls' League officers are I do not know. The Athletic Commissioner, however, represents the athletes of UHS on Student Council.

Mascot applications may be filed May 12-16. Campaigning is May 19-23. The mascot is a female, attractive, shapely (hopefully) and high spirited. She must also like dogs, for she is responsible for Angus MacPep II at all sports events.

The offices of Recording Secretary, Homecoming Chairman, and the Business Manager are appointed by the Student Council. Any one interested in these should apply May 26-31. The Recording Secretary takes all minutes of the Student Council meetings, and distributes copies around campus.

The Homecoming Chairman has charge of all festivities of Homecoming and Spring Sports. The Business Manager has charge of all vending at sports events and the like. He checks on the coke machine, popcorn machine and some other items at such events.

Puffet Show PTA Project For April 19

There will be two benefit performances; Saturday, April 19-2 and 7:30 p.m. Admission 50¢ at Upland high school auditorium, 565 West 11th street, Upland, of the Hank Higgins created "Puffet" (not puppet) show.

He has appeared with the Steve Allen TV Show and has been performing on the Dean Martin Show, the Smothers Brothers show.

His "Puffets" have no strings and required as many as two operators. Since they are life-sized, Puffets can perform simultaneously with real people. Puffets are unique in that they actually walk, pick up things, do special non-human movements and special effects depending upon the situation. Each character is designed for his "own thing" whether it be stretching, flying or even difficult sleight of hand.

Upland Highlanders PTA will use the funds for their annual scholarship award and service club award, etc. The public is invited to attend the performances.

STUDENT SPEAKER---Mike Guerin receives an honorable mention for participating in the Upland Breakfast Lions Club speak-off contest. Presenting him his award is (left) Fred Kramer, sec-treas. of the club.

Student Speaker Tells Of 'Hopes and Fears'

Ed. Note: This is the third in a series of speakers who participated in the Upland Breakfast Lions Club speak-off contest. Theme of the contest was "The Hopes and Fears of Today's Youth". Mike Guerin, a sophomore at Upland High school and plans to attend San Diego State and study technical TV.

Mike started out with telling of the suicide of an eleven year old boy, who left a note behind saying "I just can't take it anymore."

Mike then turned to an explanation of today's society. "Some of the youth of today are hooked on such drugs as heroin and LSD. Some smoke Marijuana frequently. Some are already becoming alcoholic. Some are dropping out of school; dropping out of society."

"May be they have the right idea. Maybe there is no hope for society where there are two cars in every garage; where the appliances that perform every task from opening letters to cracking nuts. All of these, the drugs, the dropping out, are methods of escape... escape from fear."

"We, the youth of today have many fears. We fear that other governments will rise and attack us; leaving the nation, as well as the world in total ruin.

"We fear our own country's government. We hear of bribery of public officials, of officials not keeping with the responsibilities of their offices. We see chaos caused by political conventions, and fear that the political system identified with democracy in America may be falling apart."

"The budget was studied at the meeting, and discussed for presentation to the city council. Esther Boulton Black's revised edition of "Stories of Old Upland" has been donated to the library by her."

Mike, then continued with the fears of youth and said in part, "The children are starving in Biafra and in America. We ask why? We see apathy in adults, we see them standing and doing nothing while someone is beaten and again we ask why? What's going on what are you doing?"

He spoke of the racism in our country, the prejudice in housing and a color gap. He said he hoped that people would open their eyes and take a look. That the government would return to being idealistic, but to a sensible state of efficiency and the hope that people the world over would be able to live together no matter what color, ideology or religion.

Mike said, "Today's youth is losing his unique identity. He's no longer a person, but a number. Youth is being typecast in a rebellious role and their good being overlooked."

"Youth is trying to change the world not to destroy it." In short we hope we can change the world. We hope that the youth of tomorrow may look upon our undertaking and find that we in spite of tremendous obstacles, have succeeded in this Herculean task. That we have fought and won. We hope there will be no more eleven year old suicides."

YOUR ASSEMBLYMAN AT WORK

John V. Briggs 35th District

SACRAMENTO - Legislation calling for the sweeping changes in the laws governing the processing and sale of pet foods, horse meat and beef has been proposed by Assemblyman John Briggs (R-Fullerton).

Briggs said he plans to introduce two bills into the Legislature creating a Pure Pet Food Act of 1969 and regulating the sale of pet foods and also horse meat.

The two measures were the result of an intensive investigation by Briggs' legislative staff over a period of six months covering more than 5,000 miles from San Diego to Yreka.

Briggs said his staff visited more than 50% of the cattle centers in the state.

The Fullerton law-maker became interested in the need for updated regulations governing the meat processors after the arrest a year ago of an individual who was diverting adulterated meat to retail meat markets for human consumption.

Police from the City of Chino in Briggs' district had arrested the person who was subsequently convicted of selling the bad meat.

"My investigation showed that there were numerous cases of diverting meat unfit for humans or pets to retail markets," Briggs said.

The legislator said he found that only a small amount of cattle which had died by reasons other than slaughtering were being shipped to the rendering plants.

"Apparently the cows either stopped dying or the bad meat was being diverted to the public markets and sold as pet food or wholesome beef," he said.

His investigation proved there was an obvious need to set down guidelines in meat inspection and enforcement and his two proposals are expected to accomplish this.

"The proposed measures," Briggs said, "would make the diversion of uninspected meat into human channels more difficult thereby guaranteeing a wholesome product for both California citizens and their pets."

The bills would also improve the competitive position of California slaughters, processors and renderers, Briggs said, whereby all out-of-state importers would have to be licensed and such importers would have to conform to California standards.

Briggs said the measure would give clear guidelines to the state public health and agriculture departments which now regulate the processing and sale of meat and pet food.

"During the drafting of the bills," Briggs said, "I worked closely with the two state agencies who gave me a great deal of help and direction in establishing clear guidelines to make enforcement easier and make the laws less confusing for the industry."

One of the specific intents of the bills is to show that the Legislature is intensely interested in regulating meat products whether through state or federal laws.

SACRAMENTO --- Assemblyman John V. Briggs (R-35th) today introduced legislation which regulates disestablishment of superior courts. The bill AB 1080 invalidates the power of the County Boards of Supervisors to terminate superior court sessions in cities other than in the county seat, provided such courts were in operation on or before January 1, 1957.

Briggs said, "It has long been my firm conviction that courts exist for the convenience of the people and not of the judges. The North Orange County Superior Court branch has been placed in jeopardy by the study requested on behalf of the Orange County Superior Court Judges. Because this study by the Judicial Council was sible through an act of the legislature, I feel it is proper and appropriate that the legislature act to rescind previous legislation which permitted the reopening of the question concerning the continuance of our branch court in North Orange County.

"This legislation passed in 1967 was aimed solely at the discontinuance of our superior court. It was never brought to the attention of any Orange County legislator at any time. Nor were the County Board of Supervisors or their representatives aware of this bill's introduction. I am not trying to hide the repeal of that very poor bill, as I believe all parties who have a vital stake in this issue should be informed and aware of its introduction.

"Accordingly, I have sent a copy of this release to Superior Court Judge Bruce W. Sumner who was the originator of the 1967 bill. I have also informed the County Board of Supervisors." Briggs indicated that he had no idea what the Judicial Council would recommend concerning the future of the Superior Branch Court and felt that perhaps his bill would convey to the Council the strong feelings which he has about the continuance of the branch court operation in North Orange County.

SACRAMENTO --- Assemblyman John V. Briggs (R - 35th District) today introduced legislation which revises obligation of lending institutions in handling of property tax statements. AB 224 will require lending institutions to send to the taxpayer a photostatic copy of his tax bill which the lending institution has paid for him.

Assemblyman Briggs explained that the purpose of the bill is to assure that a detailed copy of the bill reaches the borrower in order that the borrower may know exactly where the taxes are going - for example, school taxes, sewer district taxes, city taxes, etc.

"Hopefully," said Mr. Briggs, "the taxpayers will have a better idea of where their property tax money is going."

SACRAMENTO - Assemblyman John V. Briggs, (R - 35th District), has introduced legislation, Assembly Bill 109, to allow the Department of Motor Vehicles to issue identification cards to persons 18 or over who do not have drivers' licenses.

According to Briggs, "The legislation was suggested by one of my constituents, Miss Madeline McGreevy of Fullerton, who complained that only identification from the Motor Vehicle Department, namely a drivers' license, is accepted in most establishments in California. Even a birth certificate is unacceptable in most cases."

Many persons 18 or over do not drive because of physical impairments or simply because they have no desire. Naturally, they have no drivers' licenses and therefore no acceptable identification. A.B. 109 should solve the problem.

Eye Safety Twenty-seven states have passed school eye-safety laws, requiring that all students, teachers and visitors in schools and colleges wear appropriate eye protection in labs and workshops.

Australians Test California Mechanical Grape Harvester

The impactor type mechanical grape harvester tested in the Bakersfield area the past two seasons will exhibit improvements as the result of an extra seasons development when it returns to the vineyards this fall.

This additional season of experience is being provided currently in the vineyards of South Australia.

Wallace Johnson, president of Up-Right Harvesters, who recently returned from a three week trip to New Zealand and Australia indicates that mechanization of grape harvest has spread to this Southern Hemisphere continent. His visit in Australia coincided with the arrival of the first mechanical harvester in Australia, an Up-Right machine, which will be used by CSIRO (the Commonwealth Scientific and Industrial Research Organization) for fostering the viticultural methods which will enable Australian vineyardists to convert to mechanical harvesting.

Interest is keen among Australian and New Zealand grape growers to convert, reports Johnson, and the availability of this machine for commercial trials on the types of grapes successfully harvested in the USA during the 1968 harvest season is an incentive to a number of growers to trellis a total of several hundred acres in preparation for the 1970 Australian harvest season.

While in Adelaide, South Australia, the principal grape growing state, Johnson conferred with officials of Century Products Pty. Ltd., Up-Right's licensee in Australia to manufacture the patented UP - RIGHT duplex trellis. Mr. J.A. Heaslip, Chairman of Century, has toiled their factory for the mass production of these trellises now so popular in the California vineyards, in preparation for the Australian pruning-trellising season in August - September 1969.

As Wallace Johnson stated at the Wine Advisory Board meeting in Palm Springs last November, the prime factor in Up-Right's extending its pioneering of mechanical grape harvesting in California to Australia and New Zealand is to double the rate of progress in vineyard experience during the development period of this new method of harvesting wine grapes. By harvesting in the USA (in the northern hemisphere) in August-September-October, and by harvesting in Australia (in the southern hemisphere) in February - March-April, there can be cumulative field experience for almost six months per year.

Dr. Peter May of CSIRO and Dr. Herbert Barrett of Illinois, on leave to CSIRO for this project, are in charge of the viticultural development work to facilitate mechanical harvesting. Experimental acreages of Sultana (Thompson Seedless), Clare Riesling, Cabernet Sauvignon, Grenache, Shiraz, Semillon, Doradillo, Pedro Ximenes Palamino and other varieties have been trellised for the 1969 harvest season. These experimental plots, all cross-arm trellised, are being harvested by the UP - RIGHT harvester at the present time. Most of the vines are cane pruned. Some experimental work is being done to provide flexible cordon pruning for mechanical harvesting.

When Johnson was in the Robert Hollick vineyard at Mildura he witnessed two plots of cordon-pruned Clare Riesling harvested by the UP-Right machine under Dr. Barrett's direction. In Johnson's opinion the Australians now have an aggressive viticultural program, equivalent to the work being done in the United States.

In the 1930's, Dr. May advised Johnson, the Australians proved convincingly that Sultana yield a greater crop when cross-arm trellised, and that most vigorous varieties do better on cross-arms than on a single wire.

Consequently Johnson observed that most vines in Australia are on 12" to 18" steel cross-bar 2-wire trellises. Supporting posts are commonly 21 ft. to 27 ft. spacing, and the wires are kept taut by concrete or timber endposts heavily braced. The posts are 4" - 5" diameter and are not at the vines. The vines are spaced 4 ft. to 8 ft. apart, and are trained up strings to the wires above. A third wire along the top of the post, about 1-1/2 ft. above the trellis cross bar, helps support the foliage above the grapes. It will be a very logical extension of present Australian practice to place 36" wide UP-RIGHT duplex trellises on top of the posts and move the two wires up to this new location to spread the vine and raise the height of the grape crop for mechanical harvesting, says Johnson.

At the Montana Wines vineyard, Auckland, New Zealand, Johnson observed a viticultural practice which should interest California vineyards as a comparison with local practice. Five foot posts spaced 24 ft. apart support six high tensile steel wires. Five wires are spaced at various heights on one side of the post, one wire is placed near the ground on the other side of the posts. The vines grow up these wires without any stakes or strings. End posts of concrete, braced strongly keep the wires taut. The heads of the vines are at 2 ft. height. All varieties are cane pruned.

Due to the cool climate, the New Zealand grapes are slow in maturing and rarely attain the sugar content reached in the U.S. or Australia. Machine harvesting tests in following harvest seasons will determine whether certain varieties in this less-ripe condition will harvest as well in New Zealand as they do in California.

One of the most interesting examples of vine vigor encountered by Johnson on his trip was at the Robert Hollick vineyard at Mildura. The vines are irrigated from the Murray River and the growing conditions are similar to that of the San Joaquin Valley in California, Region 4 equivalent. Under these conditions a 2-acre plot of "Rhine Riesling" (apparently the same grape as the Johannisberg Riesling of North Coast areas in California) yielded 19 tons of grapes, 10.5 Baume 8.4 total acid, with 3% to 5% of the grapes left on the vine. These vines are on a 2-wire trellis, 12" spacing. Each vine has 4 cordons, each about 2-1/2 ft. long. The wire height is 36". Vine spacing is 6 ft. and row spacings measure 11 ft. The vines are young, only fourth leaf, and their trunks are 1" to 2" in diameter.

Summarizing his observations Johnson stated that the growth in dinner wine sales is even greater in Australia and New Zealand than in the United States; that the vineyard workers are less and less available each year; and that the outlook for an increasing demand for wine grapes is excellent. The advent of mechanical harvesting on a large scale is limited only by the rate at which viticultural practices can be modified to permit this important innovation.

Canyon Lake To Open 672 Homesites Month Of April

CANYON LAKE - The opening of the largest single residence tract in Riverside County history promises a busy spring sales program at Canyon Lake, developers announced recently.

A new unit of 672 homesite lots worth $5.5 million in land costs will be offered for sale the second week in April, said W. Gordon Heath, president of Corona Land Co.

LARGEST IN CO.

The tract is the largest single residence area ever recorded by Riverside County, according to records at First American Title Insurance and Trust Co., of Riverside. It comprises 133 acres with a gross building area of 7,200 square feet per lot. Over 100 of the lots front on 383-acre Canyon Lake. Others overlook the now-building 18-hole golf course.

The new unit includes a park area, several recreational lots, and a three and one half acre lake front apartment house site.

Graded and ready for construction, the home sites will be offered for prices starting at $5,500, with 10 per cent down payment. According to Jack Phillips, Corona Land's director of sales and marketing, public anticipation of the tract opening "has produced a sizeable customer waiting list."

SELL $19 MILLION

More than $19 million worth of water front, golf course, and lake view lots have been sold since Canyon Lake opened last April 1. Opening of the new unit leaves the rustic community with only two tracts for future R-1 development, said Heath.

Stepped-up road improvements, too, will help boost spring sales; mainly, this will give potential buyers access to lots in the 2,017-acre recreational community's more distant areas.

Two paved lanes of the new relocated Railroad Canyon Road -- main arterial approach to the lake from Highways 395 and 71 -- are now open to traffic. Canyon Lake is located midway between the two highways. Additional road paving operations inside the development will be completed April 4.

BUILDING HOMES

With the newly formed Foothill Construction Co. in operation, many property owners are arranging to have homes built on their sites. Five model homes under construction

The band and choir are under the direction of Jack W. Mason and Gordon Berger.

Admission is a $1 donation at the box office. Proceeds will be used to defray band and choir activity expenses in the academic year ahead.

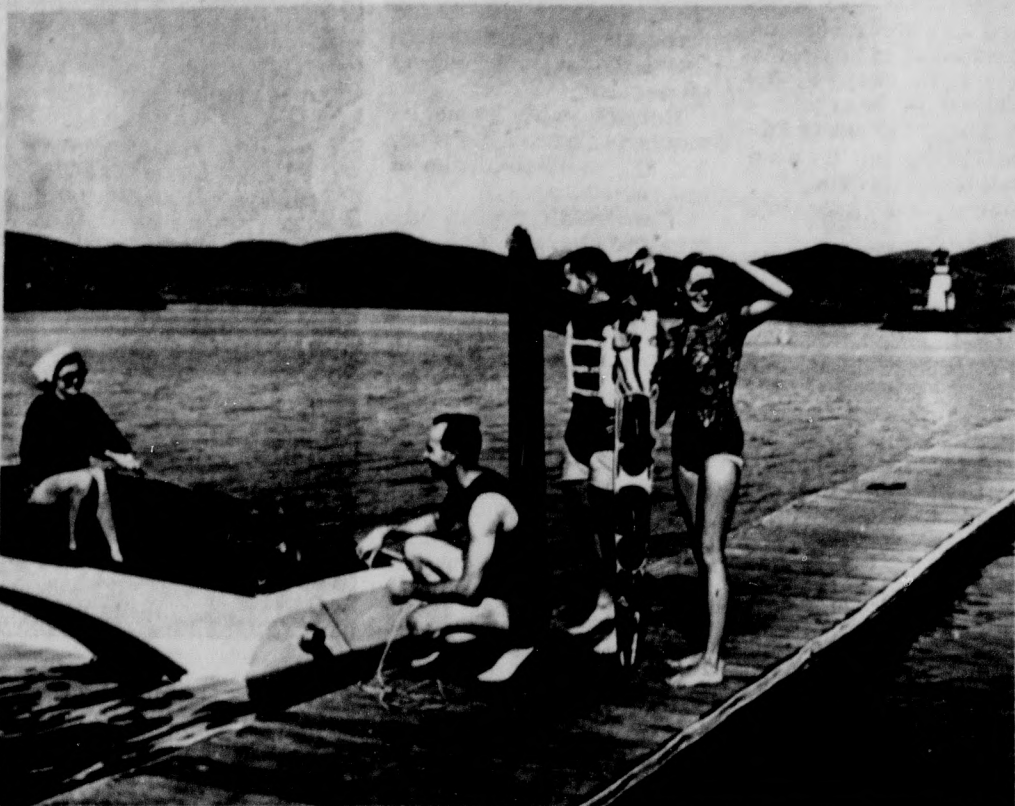

at the lake will open in midsummer.

Canyon Lake is the first private fresh water recreational lake of its kind in Southern California. Water sports key most activities. But many features help to make it unique -- a luxury lodge and pool, country store, amphitheater, two islands and marina.

After completion of the championship golf course will come a 12-acre equestrian center for residents who prefer to rent or board horses. The project is rimmed by miles and miles of riding trails.

FUN IN THE SUN - Water-loving foursome get ready for day of boating and skiing around 383-acre Canyon Lake, 26 miles south of Riverside. Experts call lake's three-mile ski run state's finest.

SWINGIN' DOWN THE FAIRWAY - Golf is only one activity offered at Canyon Lake, where developing Corona Land Co. will open a new unit of 672 homesite lots the second week in April. New R-1 tract is largest ever recorded in Riverside County.

Oia Terminal Expansion Gets Comm. Approval

ONTARIO -- The Los Angeles Board of Airport Commissioners today approved final plans specifications, and a cost estimate for enlarging the terminal building at Ontario International Airport.

Included in the plans, according to Robert M. Hamilton, Jr., airport manager, are extensions at both east and west ends of the present terminal building to contain additional ticket counters and office facilities, and doubling of the restaurant and lounge areas. Altogether the plans call for the terminal's floor space to be increased from 30,000 to more than 52,000 square feet. Roofed-over areas on outside boarding concourse will also be extended.

Prepared by Harnish, Morgan & Causey, Inc., Ontario architects, the project is estimated at $789,300. Work on the terminal expansion should commence in 8 to 10 weeks.

The Commissioners also authorized the Department of Airports' General Manager Clifton A. Moore to advertise for bids for the construction work.

Young men who are desirous of completing their military obligation early can now do so. The young man planning his future owes it to himself to investigate the opportunities offered by the Navy.

Greater Protection On Citizen Loans Sought By Quimby

SACRAMENTO--Legislation has been introduced by Assemblyman John P. Quimby (D-Rialto) to provide greater protection to persons who borrow money from California banks or loan agencies.

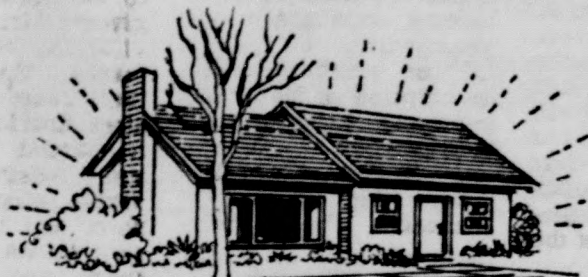

The measure specifically prohibits such lending institutions from requiring that the borrower withdraw his funds from other banks and savings firms before a loan can be approved.

"Studies I have made show that this procedure is permissive under California law," Quimby said. "I see no reason why this type of coercion should be allowed."

Quimby said a loan should be consummated based on the merits of the application rather than on "blackjacking" the borrower into doing business with just the one company.

"Our nation's financial structure is based on competition," the lawmaker said, "but this is a pure violation of our restraint of trade laws."

Highway Beautification Award Of Appreciation

California is not only proud of its freeway system but also the way the highways are blended into the surrounding terrain. This effect is achieved through design and landscaping. In keeping with this goal, the California Highway Commission occasionally issues an award of appreciation to those organizations and individuals, including private enterprise, who have worked to enhance the appearance of areas adjacent to the California highways. It is hoped that this award will also encourage others to participate in the effort to bring about beautification of California highways. The criteria of the selections for awards:

1. Beautification of structures and areas within sight of a California State highway.
2. Good taste and compliance with all State laws and local ordinances of roadway advertising.
3. Highway safety maintained.
4. Compatibility with the environs and enhancement of the overall appearance of the highway and surroundings.

Entries must be documented with one or two photographs (8 1/2" x 11" or smaller), and a description of the efforts instituted showing the relationship to the highway and how the entry improves the roadway appearance. The description, one page in length, should include the location of the project, method of installation, owner, any other pertinent information, along with a brief statement of the work accomplished, to provide sufficient information for adequate reviews by all parties concerned.

Entries fulfilling the criteria set forth above may be submitted to Mr. C. V. Kane, District Engineer, Division of Highways, 247 Third St., San Bernardino, CA 92403, or to the State Highway Engineer, Mr. J.A. Legarra, 1120 N. Street, Sacramento, CA 95807, for their respective sponsorship. Entries will then be forwarded to the Safety and Aesthetics Committee which will screen them and make recommendations to Mr. Legarra and the Highway Commission.

Lipscomb Asks Congress For More Flood Money

Congressman Glen Lipscomb (24th District) told a Congressional committee that California faces a "tremendous task of reconstruction and repair" and that additional emergency type assistance should be made available to help in this effort. He also called for a watershed project in the 24th District to help reduce damages from rain and floods in the future. The Congressman testified at hearings conducted by the Flood Control Subcommittee of the House Public Works Committee on legislation proposing to make more aid available to California.

This legislation, co-sponsored by Congressman Lipscomb and 28 other Members of Congress from California, proposes "To provide assistance to the State of California for the reconstruction for areas damaged by recent storms, floods, landslides, and high waters."

In discussing the need for this legislation, the Congressman stressed the heavy storm damages which occurred in both Los Angeles and San Bernardino Counties during the January and February storms.

He told the Committee that while there were damages generally throughout the 24th District, major losses were centered in these areas. He said that parts of San Bernardino County immediately adjacent to the 24th District suffered heavy damages.

Bit of Home Samurais warriors and Japanese feudal lords carried orchids on journeys as a remedy for homesickness.

Congressman Lipscomb also urged the Committee to consider a watershed protection project which is proposed for the 24th District. Known as the San Gabriel River Watershed-Western Area Project, it is proposed for the area above Glendora and Azusa. He told the Committee that such a project, which would involve construction of works to improve fire protection, reduce erosion and control flooding, could help to substantially reduce storm damage as occurred in the area.

He said: "It is my hope that the Committee will examine this proposal to see what might be done toward authorizing the San Gabriel River Watershed-Western Area Project so that this important work could begin. In my opinion it would be a sound and practical step to proceed with this watershed project which would aid greatly in eliminating or reducing the damages in the event of heavy rains and floods."

Glen Helen Park Slates Regatta For April 13

San Bernardino County's Glen Helen Regional Park will host the first annual "Inland Empire Sailing Regatta" on Sunday, April 13, at 1 p.m., and continuing throughout the afternoon. Since these sailboats are exact scale models of the famous 12 meter America Cup boats, visitors to the park will be able to observe them closely throughout the race. The boats are six feet long, constructed of fiberglass, and weigh forty pounds, and are controlled by complex radio gear.

Racing will be conducted over a triangular course on the main lake at Glen Helen Regional Park. Entrants from throughout Southern California are expected; the public is welcome to attend. There is no spectator charge for the races; however, the normal park entrance charge of 50¢ per vehicle will be collected.

Glen Helen Regional Park can be reached by taking Interstate 15 north to the Devore Road off-ramp, then proceeding west on Devore Road approximately one mile.

Chaffey High School Board Candidates Speak Out

state assistance to meet the heavy tax problems. Pay salaries commensurate to area, ability, experience, need. Limit duplication of administrative costs. Preventive maintenance program. A strong purchasing policy. Prudent and economical spending of the tax monies. Offer mature leadership. Curriculum to meet needs of all students, so they can face the problems of the world and understand what is expected of them."

"For the past ten years I have demonstrated my concern for a better future for all young people in the Chaffey District through my work with the PTA, Salvation Army, West End Family Counseling Service and the West End United Fund.

As a concerned parent and citizen, I have consistently attended regular board meetings for the past five years. There should be increased attempts in the parent education field and courses offered which would bring the two worlds closer together in understanding. Involve the students in activities so they do not have idle time, and offer a realistic curriculum so young people will be prepared in every possible way for our world of rapid change. I am concerned that the needs of students at all levels of ability should be met and that all students should achieve maximum success—emerging as responsible citizens.

Let the students know you are hearing them, and that they are a part of decisions. BE A LISTENING BOARD by meeting with representative groups of students from each of the five high schools regularly. This would be time-consuming but the results would be most beneficial to the community at large.

I do support the tax rate increase so this district can continue to offer a high quality educational program and to expand and implement the curriculum. Our best insurance for a sane future is the education of our elementary and high school age population. These students should not be penalized for the unrest and disruption in many areas of education caused by troublemakers. It is, also, by belief that teachers should be compensated on a professional scale if this district hopes to attract and retain a qualified and dedicated staff, which determines the environment for learning and the programs presented.

I believe I have an unselfish interest in the public schools, the community and in every child. I am not seeking the position for personal prestige or political gain. I have ample time to spend in becoming an informed board member and to represent the community at the regular board meetings, study seminars and other conferences considered a vital part of a trustee's responsibility."

WILLIAM DRAPER

"I reside at 118 E. "I" St., Ontario, Birthplace Potlach, Idaho in 1912. My employment status, State Building Inspector of new school construction. Presently employed by the Chaffey Jr. College, Resident of So. Calif. 52 years and of Ontario 18 years. My wife's name is Joyce and I have two married daughters.

I am finishing my 4th year as a duly elected member of the Board of Trustees, a member of the California School Employees Assn. for 15 years, a Past Area Governor of Toastmasters International, Past Chancellor Commander of the Knights of Pythias and a member of several Community and Educational Committees.

The major problem of our District is the same as most Districts in the Nation—LACK OF FINANCING. When and if the State Legislature assumes its obligation and re-imburse the local districts at a Dollar for Dollar basis instead of the present 69% local and 31% state most of our pressing problems could be solved.

As my record as a Board Member shows I believe that the Pupil, the District, and the Teachers are the most important parts of a School District in that order."

RICHARD EVANS

Richard J. Evans is 41, and resides at 7491 Vineyard ave., Cucamonga.

"I am married to Betty (Bell) Evans and have 5 children, ages 17, 15, 11, 9 and 3, veteran of the U.S. Navy and have lived in Ontario and vicinity for 25 years. I am a

Charter member of the Poothill Baptist Church of Upland and member of the Ontario Kiwanis Club. I served on the board of trustees of Upland College, an accredited college in the area, for 4 years and was legal counsel for it. I'm a former treasurer and a board member of the Conservative Baptist Assn. of Southern California and legal counsel for the Association for the past 10 years.

"I was deputy district attorney for San Bernardino County for 2 years and for the past 8 years have had a private law practice in Ontario. I'm a member of the American Bar Assn., California State Bar Assn., San Bernardino County Bar Assn., and the West End Bar Assn.

"I have 2 teenage, high school students in the District and have worked with young people in the church and civic affairs.

"My concern is to maintain and where appropriate, increase the educational quality within the District. A high degree of quality of the teachers must be had which will require that their salaries and other benefits be attractive and competitive with other districts.

"The overall financing of the district is important in the areas of meeting the normal increase of operational expenses and the expansion of new schools and other facilities.

"The high school curriculum should be a sound, balanced one directed toward a basic educational background. The curriculum should consider both the college-bound student and the high school limited student."

JOSEPH MAZZEO.

"I am presently employed as a postman with the Ontario Post Office.

The ninth annual Custom Car, Motorcycle and Dune Buggy Show has been set for the Los Angeles Sports Arena April 24-27.

The show will be under the sponsorship of the Tridents Car Club, Cycle World Magazine and the Dune Buggies Magazine. New this year is the dune buggy portion. The event is recognized as the largest collection of customs, cycles and dune buggies in the West.

Exotic machinery will occupy more than 100,000 square feet of space on two levels of the beautiful Sports Arena at Figueroa and Santa Barbara blvds.

In addition to the displays, the heralded Evel Knievel will perform four times during the run of the event. Knievel, who crashed trying to fly his motorcycle over the fountains at Caesar's Palace in Las Vegas, will attempt to hurdle a long string of cycles and trucks.

Public Schools Week Set April 21-25

With the appointment of a committee of 25 prominent Californians, machinery was set in motion for the fiftieth annual observance of Public Schools Week in California, scheduled for April 21-25.

During Public Schools Week open house will be observed by virtually every California public school. While originally sponsored by the Masonic fraternity in 1920, Masonic Grand Lodge of California has sponsored Public Schools Week for half a century. The observance is designed to point up the need of adequate public schools for all children, regardless of race or religion.

Grand Master Crigler designated Richard H. Dutwiler as chairman of the committee.

"The Public Schools Week was sponsored by the late Grand Master, Charles Albert Adams, shortly after the World War I armistice, at a time when there appeared to be great doubt as to the future of the institution of the public school in California.

"The public school is a bulwark of our democracy," Crigler said, "and the liberty and freedom which we enjoy today. They must be properly maintained for the education of an ever-increasing number of children in California. Although public school education is not, technically, a right of citizenship, yet it is a heritage and privilege which under proper control, with law and order prevailing, we must maintain for all the people of California."

"It is our sincere hope that every school, every education board, as well as every Parent-Teacher and community citizens' group in every California community will wholeheartedly join forces in this observance, and that the parents will take advantage of this opportunity to inspect the schools their children attend, and become well acquainted with the teachers," Crigler declared.

Cable Fly-In Set For April 12-13

Members of the Pomona Jaycees will try again to stage the benefit fly-in at Cable Airport in Upland to raise funds for the Pomona Boys Club. The first two tries were rained out earlier in the year.

The event has been rescheduled for April 12 and 13 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. each day. Scenic rides around Pomona Valley will be offered at two-cents per pound of a person's weight. The flights will be available both days in a small aircraft.

In addition to the scenic flights, a series of air events will be performed throughout both days, Bob Hoover, of North American-Rockwell Corp., will demonstrate aerobatics in his Shrike Commander.

Aerobatics flyer Terry Thornton will give demonstrations of stunt flying. Members of the Norton Air Force Base Parachute Team will demonstrate jumping and parachute folding techniques.

The Antique Airplane Club will have its aircraft on display during the events.

A Tough, Uphill Tax Battle

Residents of Ontario, Montclair, Upland and the Cucamonga - Alta Loma area will be asked Tuesday to raise the basic tax rate in the Chaffey Union high school district from the present $1.70 per $100 assessed valuation to levy, if necessary, $2.50 per $100 assessed valuation.

The increase faces an uphill battle as do all issues which would raise taxes for the beleaguered taxpayer.

While a favorable vote doesn't necessarily mean it will jump from $1.70 to $2.50 this year or next, it does open the door to the Board to increase it when necessary.

Originally, a bond issue for expansion and construction of new high schools was set to be voted upon at the same time, but the Board wisely delayed this proposal until a further date.

Missing from the campaign has been a lay committee actively pushing the increase. Missing, too, has been publicity on the increase -- other than a release from the office of the superintendent last week.

Has it already been written off as a lost cause?

There is no denying, the district will need more money to attract the high caliber teachers needed and maintain the present high standards. There has been no increase in the rate for the past nine years.

But it is going to be an uphill battle to put it across in the current mood of the taxpayers where they are against anything that will cost them more and have an opportunity to vote on it. We refer you to the three school issues defeated in Los Angeles last week.

And last, but most certainly not least, a worse date for holding such an election could not have been selected.

April 15 is the deadline for filing both state and federal income taxes, and the "taxpayers' bank account and purse is well-emptied. He certainly is in no mood to cast a favorable vote to increase his tax burden next year.

As school administrators and everyone else knows, the entire taxation system for financing schools needs to be overhauled, and whether the state likes it or not, the burden is headed that way.

We appreciate the plight of the Chaffey Union high school district, but we are sympathetic, too, to the home owner who has a rough time paying his taxes now.

If the increase passes, the district can certainly thank the education-minded voters who are willing to shoulder an almost impossible tax burden.

Couple An Unusual Combo

Norton Air Force Base has a lot of young Air Force officers. Many of them are pilots -- and most of them are married. However, very few Norton pilots are married to other Air Force officers. And few, indeed, of these are married to officer-pilots.

Capt. Clinton R. Bowman Jr. and his wife, 1st Lt. Carol A. Bowman, are probably the only Norton couple to fall into this select class of husband and wife officer and pilot teams.

Both are active members of the Norton Aero Club. Captain Bowman holds a private pilot's license, and has more than 2000 hours' flying time. He is currently seeking his instrument rating and commercial pilot's credentials. Lieutenant Bowman is a student pilot working towards her private pilot's license.

Bowman is a physician assigned to the Ballistic Missile Branch of the Directorate of Development Plans, the "crystal ball shop" of SAMSO, the Space and Missile Systems Organization. He holds a physics degree from Purdue University.

Lieutenant Bowman graduated from the University of Cincinnati with a degree in pure mathematics and then completed a year of graduate work. At the present time she is assigned as an administrative officer with the 63rd Aerial Port Squadron.

Grand National Turtle Sweepstakes Next Month

A tortoise will race, not the traditional rabbit, but a fast frog in a zany event that will draw visitors to the Southern California desert during May.

It will be during the Grand National Turtle Sweepstakes which started as a gag 24 years ago and now will probably attract some 15,000 spectators and turtle racers to the town of Joshua Tree on May 3 and 4.

Joshua Tree is situated in the scenic desert of San Bernardino County, largest county in the continental USA. It is set in a forest of Joshua Trees which really are giant desert lilies, according to the Southern California Visitors Council. They grow 30 to 40 feet high and may be 300 years old.

The plant got its name from the early Mormons who thought its queer shaggy arms upraised at awkward angles looked like Joshua raising his arms to the heavens. The town is at one entrance to the Joshua Tree National Monument of some 800 square miles protecting a huge forest of the lilies.

Big dry land turtles roam the nearby desert. Visitors with children enjoy trailing them on their dragging tracks through the sands. Where two meet and fight, the sand is torn up and the track of the fleeing loser is obvious -- he practically runs on tip toe.

For the sweepstakes, residents are gathering in the turtles by the dozen. In the races, the tortoises are loosed at the center of a big circle and first one out wins. They race on into the night on a silulated pari-mutual basis. Visitors may rent turtles from the corral and join the fun.

The big feature is the matched race between the fastest turtle and a fast hopping Calaveras County frog from Angels Camp where the Jumping Frog Jubilee of Mark Twain fame is held each year. Last year the turtle triumphed at Angels Camp but met shameful defeat by the frog on his own home grounds at Joshua Tree.

Sound Of Music SB Light Opera Presentation

Portraying the important role of the Mother Abess in the Rodgers and Hammerstein hit musical "The Sound of Music" will be Virginia Jaeger, popular Southland singer actress.

The popular family musical is being produced by the San Bernardino Civic Light Opera Assn. and opens April 25 for a seven day run in the California Theatre in downtown San Bernardino.

Based on the true life of the Trapp Family Singers, the story develops when the Mother Superior thinks that Maria, the postulant to wander off singing, would be better suited for an assignment as the governess to the seven motherless children of Captain von Trapp.

Starring as Maria is soprano June Roselle and handsome baritone Rhodes Reason co-stars as Captain von Trapp.

Tickets for the musical are available at all of the performances and price ranges and can be obtained from the box office located at 2079 North E, San Bernardino, by writing to Civic Light Opera, P.O. Box 606 or from the Chamber of Commerce in Ontario.

ITEM: Vinyl fabrics are available in prints, solids, plaids and checks. They are especially good for rainy day fashions.

Davenport Joins MSAC Relays' Athlete Parade

WALNUT -- Willy Davenport, ranked the world's top high hurdler the past four years, has joined the parade of Olympic Games gold winners in the 11th annual Mt. San Antonio College Relays, April 25-26-27.

Previously announced entries by Hilmer Lodge meet director, are Bill Toomey, decathlon; Al Oerter, discus; and Bob Beamon, long jump.

"And that's not all," says Lodge, who was also the U.S. Olympic Games committee chairman. "We hope to have several others of similar caliber."

Now in his seventh year of major competition, the 6 ft. 1 in., 185-pound Davenport had by far his best campaign in 1968, despite several severe setbacks.

He equalled the world 120-yard record of 13.2 at Knoxville, Tenn., on Aug. 31 and went on to capture the gold medal at Mexico City in 1968. In between, he suffered crippling injuries that had left his future in doubt. But, after winning the final U.S. Olympic trials at Lake Tahoe in 1968, there was no stopping the fleet Willie.

And he has continued his exploits into the past indoor season, dominating the field at every distance from 45 to 70 yards.

Davenport, who now represents the Houston Striders has professional football aspirations. He thinks he can make it either as a flanker back or defensive back.

Following are Davenport's best marks during his career:

Outdoors--1963, 13.9; 1964, 13.6; 1965, 13.5; 1966, 13.3; 1967, 13.3; 1968, 13.2 (ties world record).

Indoors--45 yards, 5.3; 50 yards, 5.8; 60 yards, 6.8; 70 yards, 7.8.

Chaffey Professor To Display Paintings On Indian Culture

ALTA LOMA--An artist with a fine eye and deft brush for Indian country will grace the Chaffey College little theater gallery with a one-man show, April 9-30.

A public reception for the exhibit. The reception will be from 1 to 4 p.m. The exhibit will be open through day school hours.

Shown will be a dozen oils representing Fleck's emotional but aesthetically disciplined sensitivity to the Indian homeland of Arizona. The paintings are appropriately simple in concept.

The creations featured in this particular show are the product of Fleck's fall semester sabbatical leave in Indian country.

In addition to visitors from the Chaffey community, the college will host sixth grade pupils of Fontana Elementary School at the Fleck show, April 11 and 18. Valencio, Elementary is the land will send pupils of the fourth through sixth levels to the exhibit as Chaffey guests, April 21.

Fleck has been an art professor at this college for the past 12 years. His subjects are painting, design and art history. He holds a University of Colorado master of fine arts degree in the field of painting.

Assisting in arrangements for the Fleck show are Chaffey art department faculty and students.

SCHOOL SAFETY
Impress upon your child--especially smaller children--the importance of observing all safety precautions during the school year. Parents should instruct their children on the proper crossing of streets and intersections. Crossing guards are stationed there for the child's protection and should be obeyed. Other safety reminders should cover proper deportment on the school bus and the rules of bicycle safety.

Water Plays Keynote In Planning For Recreation Needs Of Future

Whether ocean, stream, lake or river, water is the star on the marquee of the outdoor recreation theater, reports the Federal Government's Outdoor Recreation Resources Review Commission.

Wherever you go today for outdoor recreation, it is almost a certainty that water will play the role as the greatest attraction.

Predicting 1969 as a bonanza year for water-oriented recreation, the Commission says that people who will take the trails and highways this year will seek water to fulfill their expectations of the outdoor environment.

And billions of dollars will be poured into the economy as this huge army of vacationing families select resorts, parks -- near the water.

NEED WATER

Water is needed for swimming, which the US Government says is rapidly becoming the biggest outdoor sport; fishing, water skiing, boating, camping, picnicking, or just to walk near and observe.

"The prospect of sufficient water-oriented resources to handle the approximately 3 million annual population growth in the United States is more remote than ever," reports W. Gordon Heath, president of the Corona Land Co., developers of the $45 million Canyon Lake family recreation community in Riverside County in Southern California.

"On a past summer weekend, as an example, there were 80,000 persons on the beaches, Marina are loaded to capacity, with many having waiting lists that are in excess of the number of boatslips they have."

"At the end of 1969, statistics show that Americans will own 2 million recreational vehicles, which will take them into areas that only a few years ago went begging for attention."

"Everyone is rushing out of the cities for recreation, and the path leads to water. The problem is that there isn't enough of it to accommodate this vast audience, determined to enjoy water-sports at the fullest."

"Hundreds of thousands of persons are disappointed and rebuffed by the mobs ahead of them, and as this situation is magnified in the years ahead by the increase in a water-oriented vacationing population, it is evident that America is in for a serious drain and atrophy of its recreational resources."

NEED GOV'T HELP

Heath said the US Government should invite the guidance and assistance of private enterprise to help in the monumental task of creating a network of new recreational lakes in the United States as one of the answers to the problem.

He said another answer is the development of private family communities, oriented to water recreation, as portrayed in his 2,017 acre Canyon Lake project.

"The family recreational community is tremendously popular," said Heath, "but it should be a masterplanned approach, with many attractions to initiate and maintain confidence of the community's population."

He said it is more than just a land development around a lake; it is installing those amenities that any water-oriented community requires.

MASTERPLANNING

He pointed to Canyon Lake, 20 miles southeast of Corona, Calif., as one of the principal exhibits in the case of proper mas-terplanning.

While lots around and near the 383-acre lake were being sold, the masterplan called for the construction of a country general store, lodge, beaches, marinas and paved roads. The project, now over 52% sold out, already has these facilities.

"People," he says, "who come out to look at land see the unfolding of the masterplan with the actual existence of the $550,000 Canyon Lodge, the Country General Store, the marina, beaches and paved roads."

"As others look at Canyon Lake this spring, they will see that the 18-hole PGA golf course and equestrian center are under construction, more roads being paved, more marinas and beaches, and other installations to add to their outdoor pleasures."

"Eventually," he said, "it will be a community of about 12,000 persons who appreciate the value of building a recreational village with covenants and controls to protect their investment for the future."

"Developing land without mind or care of a masterplan is immoral and a tragic economic waste."

"It becomes more apparent that pure conservation is not the answer; it is the scientific development of conservation. You can build a recreational community, where young couples invest in their own recreational future, and provide them with the utilities for recreation, and you can still have conservation."

"Conservation, in my opinion, is not letting land remain dormant and unused, or permitting the public in essence, to decree its own use of land. But if you masterplan it and make the public a part of this careful exercise in controls and covenants, the land use is just as good a century from now as it is today."

Heath said it will take scores of recreational communities like Canyon Lake to handle the multitudes who desire an outdoor environment.

He said, "Think of the 40 million persons who participated last year in boating activities and who spent about $3 billion for equipment, food and lodging. Think of the 8 million boats in America, seven million of which are outboards."

"Consider the eight million waterskiers whose ranks are increasing by nearly one million a year. And consider the 23 million licensed fishermen who last year spent nearly $3 billion on equipment, licenses, lodging and food."

"Add to these masses the many other water-oriented sports, and it isn't difficult to understand why the resources are overpowered and why areas to enjoy the sports are on any weekend likened to the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day."

Heath feels the solution to America's recreational problems lies strictly in the masterplanning of the remaining recreational land resources. The key, he says, is water. And, he believes, if you make the average American an owner of this outdoor potential, he isn't as prone to leave the residue of his presence, such as empty beer cans, trash and other wastes of his affluent society."

A.J. Foyt Tops Hanford Entries For 200-Miler

HANFORD, CALIF.---A star-studded lineup of thirty-one drivers, led by three-time Indianapolis 500 winner A.J. Foyt of Houston, two-time national driving champion Mario Andretti of Nazareth, Pa., and defending USAC champion and Indianapolis winner Bobby Unser of Albuquerque, N.M., are ready for action in the third annual "California 200" mile USAC National Championship Indianapolis-car race at the Hanford Motor Speedway Sunday afternoon, April 13, at 3 p.m.

Racing Director J.C. Agajanian has inked an All-Star lineup of Indianapolis 500 veterans to compete for the $30,000 in prize money offered for the only pre-500 appearance of the Indy machines in California this year.

Other 500 stars in the field include Al Unser, Gary Bettenhausen, Sam Sessions, Gordon Johncock, Art Pollard, Wally Dallenbach, Billy Vukovich, Lloyd Ruby, Bobby Johns, Ronnie Bucknum, Dempsey Wilson, Jerry Grant, Roger McCluskey, Mike Mosley and Larry Dickson.

The fastest 26 qualifiers of the day will start the 200-mile feature. Time trials start at 12 noon, with practice runs at 11 a.m.

Seats will go on sale at 8 a.m. race day, priced at $10.00 for reserved starting line seats $8.00 for reserved grandstand seats, $6.00 for the general admission and $1.00 for kids under 12 in the general admission seats. Parking is free.

Holding Co. Formed By Inland Bank

POMONA - Formation of Inland Bancorp, a corporation formed for the purpose of acting as a holding company, for Inland Bank, has been authorized here by the Board of Directors of Inland Bank, Pomona Valley and West End (San Bernardino County) independent.

The new venture was incorporated under California State laws and plans to offer Inland Bank shareholders shares of stock on a one-for-one basis, after receiving requisite governmental approval, late in April or early in May.

Inland Bank, listed annually by American Banker magazine among the nation's most progressive in its category, with combined assets well over $30 million, would become a wholly owned Inland Bancorp subsidiary of 80 percent or more of Inland Bank stock in exchange for shares of Inland Bancorp.

One-bank holding companies have been gaining popularity as corporate entities enabling such companies to engage in a wider variety of financial ventures than are permitted to banks alone, according to Greyson Lee Bryan, Inland Bank Board Chairman.

They also permit banks to expand their services and provide more complete financial services to their customers, Mr. Bryan said.

Certain Amount Of Tension Color Portrait Fans' Present Is Useful, Med. Assoc. Says

Many people who are aware that they are under tension consider it a health problem and believe that they should seek relief for it. As a matter of fact, a certain amount of tension is not only normal but useful. Tension is the form in which both our mind and our body respond to a situation which demands increased effort. If we had no tension at all, we could not adequately handle the demands which life makes of us, physically and mentally. The person whose level of tension is below normal will be sluggish or listless, and, in a sense, his condition is as much a cause for concern as the person who suffers from acutely high tension.

The person who is relatively normal will develop a temporary increase in tension under circumstances of physical or psychological stress. This is reflected in his muscle tone, in his level of alertness, and in his ability to react quickly. After the demanding situation has subsided, the tension usually eases off.

If a person is under stress for an extraordinarily long period of time, or if he has the sort of temperament which over-reacts to stress, he may develop a number of physical symptoms associated with tension. These may take the form of a headache, stiffness in the back of the neck, clamping of the jaws which may even produce a toothache, gastrointestinal cramps, and insomnia. He may also develop emotional symptoms such as restlessness and irritability.

Two emotional responses -- fear and anxiety -- are related to tension. Fear is often evoked by a real physical danger and the body responds with a realistic response in which it prepares for "fight or flight". In other words, the body becomes geared for physical action to protect itself against danger. In the case of anxiety the individual is responding not to an actual physical danger but to an intangible and often unidentified feeling of being threatened. Since there is no appropriate physical outlet for this feeling (as there is in most cases of fear), the tension builds up instead of being discharged, and the person may become distraught, highly agitated, hysterical, or immobilized.

The fact that anxiety is often based on non-physical threats does not mean that it is necessarily unrealistic. In fact, it tends to occur at certain periods in a person's life when he is undergoing changes either in his own development or in his life situation. At these critical points in life, either new demands are being made upon the individual or his customary sources of security are being threatened. Anxiety is characteristic of adolescence, during the early years of marriage and the initial experience of parenthood, during job changes, and in old age.

The person who develops a constructive level of tension and whose responses of fear and anxiety are appropriate to his stresses needs no medical treatment. When tension is so prolonged or so severe that it produces persistent physical discomfort, your physician may give you sedatives or tranquilizers for a brief period of time. These will somewhat blunt your responses, contribute to a feeling of calmness, and help you weather your crisis.

If you habitually have excessive anxiety which is seriously interfering with your meeting of your daily responsibilities, your physician may suggest that you seek the help of a psychiatrist, who can aid you in developing a more realistic view of yourself and the elements in your family, social, or occupational environment which seem to you to be disproportionately threatening.

Every fan who attends the Dodger Stadium opener this year between the Dodgers and the San Diego Padres will receive a print of a color portrait of Manager Walter Alston, painted by the noted portrait artist, Nicholas Volpe.

There will be a picture night at Dodger Stadium every week in the season, with twelve other top Dodgers being painted by Volpe for these giveaways at Dodger games. The portraits will measure 8 1/2 x 11 inches and will be suitable for framing. On the back of each print will be a story on the player involved as well as his lifetime record.

Several years ago Union Oil distributed, in two seasons, upwards of 16,000,000 Volpe prints.

"I REMEMBER"

From Ruth Greenslade, Santa Rosa, California: I remember when you would get a hard can full of Hokey Pokey for a dime and a leg of lamb for 75c and ride anywhere in San Francisco for a nickel.

I remember the old wash boards and hand irons. I remember the old steam engine and pullman cars you took when you wanted to get somewhere in a hurry.

I remember seeing the boys come through the Golden Gate on their way home from the Spanish-American War. I remember the San Francisco earthquake.

I remember when women wore long skirts and high-button shoes and no makeup unless you were "fast." Those were the days when men respected women.

I remember the 1929 depression, which I'd like to forget. Yes, I've lived a full life and I'm glad I lived it when I did.

With The Marines In Vietnam

FERTILIZER POWER

The water buffalo, principle work animal in Vietnam, is now aiding the enemy unknowingly.

Droppings from the animal are being gathered up, refined and packed into small brass tubes one-half inch in diameter and three inches long for use as grenades.

A Fifth Marine Regt. combat patrol found an unopened crate in the mountains 45 miles southwest of Da Nang. In the crate the Marines found 250 newly made cylinder grenades. Two were sent to An Hoa, home base of the Fifth Marines for further inspection and analysis.

The ordnance men were curious about the unusual appearance of the grenades, but the big surprise came when they found that the explosive charge was made from buffalo manure.

The manure makes a relatively low grade explosive, but when combined with wax or other molding material and primed with a small amount of high explosive, the ammonium nitrate in the manure packs a potent kick.

FED UP WITH COMMUNIST WAYS

When a 20-year-old North Vietnamese soldier was sent on a rice carrying mission he decided to run away and try to join "Chieu Hoi," the open arms program offered the Viet Cong and NVA by the South Vietnamese Government.

After a few days of roaming around the flatlands in the An Hoa Basin he came upon "C" Co., 1st Bn., Fifth Marine Regiment's base camp. He raised his hand above his head and yelled "Chieu Hoi," to a squad of Marines in a daytime observation post who had watched his approach.

When interrogated, the North Vietnamese stated, via interpreters, "When I was hungry I had no food. When I was sick I had no medicine. I'm tired of fighting."

There has been increased Viet Cong activity in this area and with this compound the village will receive better protection. The people showed their desire for security by helping short of the new compound, the Marines started in amazement as approximately 100 South Vietnamese civilians came strolling down the road toward them bearing axes, hoes and scythes.

The Marines and Vietnamese Peoples Self Defense Force soldiers were building a new compound north of Quang Tri to offer the villagers security from the Viet Cong.

The villagers were on their way to help build the new compound.

They were inspired by a P.F. (people's) soldier who told the village chief that a new compound was being built and asked the Vietnamese if they wanted to help.

As the Marines and P.F.s strung barbed wire and dug bunkers, the civilians chopped and cleared brush and trees, along the compound's perimeter.

TAX ANSWERS

Q-The place where I eat lunch was closed recently for failing to pay taxes. Where do you get the authority to do something like that?

A-Congress has authorized various legal steps that can be taken when taxpayers do not meet their obligations. Drastic steps such as closing a business or levying on wages are taken only as a last resort after the taxpayer has repeatedly failed to make satisfactory arrangements to pay the tax.

Cases like the one you mentioned usually involve employers who fail to turn over to the Government the money they have withheld from their employees' wages for income and social security taxes.

Q-My son is working part-time in a gas station this summer. If he earns over $600 will we lose our exemption for him?

A- If he is under 19 at year end or is a full-time student his earnings will not affect your dependency exemption. However, the other dependency tests such as furnishing over half his support must still be met.

Remind your son to keep records of the money he earns. If his total earnings reach $600 he will have to file a tax return. If his earnings are less than that but taxes were withheld from his wages, he will have to file a return to obtain a refund.

Q-My wife and I just sold our house and plan to move into a retirement community. Is it true that people 65 and over don't have to pay tax on profits from home sales?

A- There are special tax benefits for those 65 and over on the profits from the sale of their home. In some circumstances the entire profit may be tax-free while in others only a portion of the profit is taxable.

For details on these and other tax benefits, send a post card to your district office and ask for a free copy of Tax Benefits for Older Americans, Document No. 5569.

Q-My store has a booth at the county fair. Is the cost for this deductible?

A-Yes, expenses connected with a fair exhibit may be deducted as a business expense.

Q-My maid doesn't want me to report Social Security taxes on her wages. What should I do?

A-As her employer, you are legally responsible for paying the Social Security taxes due if you pay her cash wages of $50 or more in any calendar quarter.

Explain to your maid that unless these taxes are paid she will not be receiving proper credit toward benefits provided under Social Security.

Q- I'm recovering from a serious illness and can no longer use public transportation to get to work. Since I now have to rely on taxis can I deduct this as a medical expense?

A- No. Transportation expenses to and from work are considered personal expenses and are not deductible. Transportation costs to the hospital or to a doctor for treatment are deductible as medical expenses, however. Check your Form 1040 instructions on how to handle these expenses.

Q- If I file my 1968 return by the end of January can I forget about the fourth installment of my estimated tax?

A- Yes, if you file your 1968 return by January 31 paying any balance due at that time. But don't forget that 1969 declarations must be filed by April 15.

Q- Last year I sold some stock I had received from my father's estate. Do I have to pay tax on this money?

A- You will only have to include in income any increase between the value of the stock at the time your father died and what you sold it for.

The amount of the increase will have to be reported as a capital gain on Schedule D. However, if the stock decreased in value the loss may be used to reduce any other capital gains you might have to report for 1968. For details see the instructions on Schedule D.

Q- I got married last year and my wife and I both received 1040 tax packages. If we file a joint return, whose label should be put on the form, mine or hers?

A- On joint returns the account is primarily identified by the husband's social security number. Therefore, file the return with your label adding your wife's name to it but be sure also to enter your wife's social security number on the return in the space provided for it.

Q- Are farmers subject to the new surcharge?

A- Yes, they like all income taxpayers are subject to the tax surcharge.

Q- How did you get involved with the administration of Federal gun laws?

A- IRS has administered Federal gun laws since 1934 when the National Firearms Act was enacted. The basis of this law, which imposed taxes on the transfer and making of firearms, was the taxing authority given the Federal government by the Constitution. As IRS is responsible for collecting other Federal taxes, it was given the responsibility of administering the gun law.

Portions Of Liver Can Be Removed And Regrown

LOS ANGELES—Substantial portions of the human liver surgically removed because of disease or injury can be regrown by the body faster than previously realized, a University of Southern California medical researcher reported today.

"It appears possible that up to 90 per cent of the liver may be removed and provided the remaining 10 per cent has an adequate blood supply, the organ will grow back to its original, normal size with completely normal function," Dr. Jan K. Siemsen said in an interview.

WITHIN WEEK

The USC assistant professor of radiology and medicine said he found in one case that liver completely regrew within one week, and in others, it took only two weeks for the surgically-diminished organ to return to its normal size.

"This discovery is significant," Dr. Siemsen said, because with this knowledge, surgeons may take a bolder, more radical approach in their surgery, removing large portions of the liver when indicated.

Such cases may include primary tumors or severe damage to extensive parts of the organ from injury, he said.

"If a surgeon removes a part of the liver that contains a single primary cancerous tumor, there is a good chance that the patient can be made well," he said.

Such surgery is used less in a metastatic tumor, he added, because of the likelihood that the entire liver would have been affected by the cancer previously.

Knowledge that the liver has the ability to regenerate itself is not new to medical science, according to the USC physician. That had been established both in studies with animals and by physician's observations of human patients.

AMAZING SPEED

What is new in his finding, he said, is "the amazing speed" with which the liver regenerates, indicated that there is no great danger of liver failure "except for a very short time" after a substantial portion of the organ has been excised.

The USC researcher reported that he was able to make the discovery by means of radioactive isotopes injected intravenously. The presence of the radioactive material in the liver conveniently allows the physician to see the organ more clearly than by previously-used means, such as X-ray. The process is called "imaging" or scanning of the organ.

Dr. Siemsen first discovered rapid regrowth of the liver more than two years ago when he was called into a case where between 80 and 90 per cent of the patient's liver had been removed surgically. Using the radioisotope scanning process to determine whether the remaining part of the liver was healthy or abscised, he found that in a very short time the normal liver mass was present. It had regenerated itself.

After noting substantially the same phenomenon in two more cases, Dr. Siemsen and a former colleague, Dr. J.J. Parker, were the first to publish the findings in medical literature in 1967.

Since then, Dr. Siemsen has studied nearly all cases of patients with liver excisions at Los Angeles County-USC Medical Center. His observations of 15 additional patients have yielded the same results. All had substantial portions of the liver removed, and all regenerated the organ to a normal size and function. All the patients are alive and doing well. He is in the process of publishing a follow-up article of results on the additional patients for medical literature.

Dr. Siemsen made the following observations:

The greater the portion of the liver that is removed the faster it apparently grows back. In some cases if a relatively small portion of the organ is removed, for example, one-quarter to one-third, it will not grow back. The speculative reason, for that, he said, is that the remaining part of the organ is sufficient to maintain the numerous and complex liver functions, constituting the "chemical laboratory" of the body.

CONCLUSION

No medical means were employed to stimulate the regrowth. It was found to occur as a normal, natural function of the body.

The precise mechanism of the system that provides for regeneration of liver remains a mystery. It is assumed that some factor in the blood that is created by removal of part of the liver causes its regrowth.

The regeneration of the liver appears to occur regardless of the particular area of the organ that has been removed.

Some functions of the liver returned to the regrown mass sooner than others. For example, the protein manufacturing capacity of the liver took longer to return to a normal level than did the bilirubin metabolism, the (blood cleansing process) which among others, returned very soon.

No "average" time in which the liver regenerates itself has yet been determined, because of some of the liver-excision patients in his study were not referred to Dr. Siemsen until several weeks after surgery.

The liver is not the only organ in the body that can regenerate itself; it has been demonstrated that the kidney has regrowth capabilities. But the liver regenerates at a faster rate.

Dr. Siemsen, who joined the USC School of Medicine faculty in 1962, also is chairman of its Radioisotope Committee and the Nuclear Medicine Section.

A native of Germany, he is a graduate of the University of Basel, Switzerland, School of Medicine.

Dr. Siemsen is a resident of South Shore, San Pedro, Calif.

Right Address Will Help Get Refund Faster

"When will I get my refund?" is a question asked over and over again by California taxpayers, District Director of Internal Revenue F.S. Schmidt said today.

He explained that thousands of refund checks are returned to Internal Revenue very year because the postman cannot deliver them.

Illegible names or addresses cause many refund checks to be returned undelivered. This can be avoided by carefully PRINTING or TYPING the name, address and zip code in the proper place on the return, and entering the correct social security number in the space provided, Mr. Schmidt said.

If someone moves after he files his return, he should leave a forwarding address with the Post Office. It is also a good idea to send the new address to the Internal Revenue Service.

Upland Resident In New Duties At Pomona First

A change in responsibilities on the management level was announced today by Paul D. White, president of the Pomona First Federal Savings and Loan Association.

Roy G. Decker, executive vice president, is now coordinator of the activities of the association with direct responsibility for division officers. He is also acting managing officer in the absence of Walker.

While he will continue his interest in public relations, much of that work will be taken over by Robert D. Nichols, who is now vice president in charge of personnel and advertising.

Nichols also will head Pomona First Federal's program of loan participation sales to other organizations, Walker said. Decker, who has been with Pomona First Federal Savings for more than 20 years, was named executive vice president last January. He lives in Pomona.

Nichols, a native of the Pomona Valley and a graduate of the Claremont Men's College, joined the association in 1962. He was vice president and chief appraiser in the loan division prior to his promotion. He resides in Upland.

Open Doors In Traffic Cause Accidents

"It is illegal to open the door of a vehicle on the traffic side unless it is safe to do so and can be done without interfering with traffic," Captain V. Nicholson of the California Highway Patrol warned today.

Each year many accidents occur because drivers open their doors onto moving traffic without looking, the Patrol commander said.

"These accidents mostly result in property damage only, but they can be pretty costly, either directly or indirectly, to the persons responsible for them."

The CHP official also noted that the vehicle code prohibits leaving a door open on the traffic side longer than is necessary to load or unload passengers.
